Kintner Letter Tells TV Recipe

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) -- Network television's almost-official recipe for eating cake and having cake at the same time has now been made public.

Robert E. Kintner, in his long letter of resignation as NBC's board chairman Friday said in part: "To trade up the quality of nighttime programming, I suggest that there should be greater pre-emption of regular prime-time schedules by special programs and that network managements must be prepared from time to time to sacrifice over-all rating leadership in favor of an increasing number of dramatic entertainment programs dealing with controversial social, economic and political problems."

Need Excitement

John C. Schneider, shortly before he was elevated from CBS network president to vice president in charge of broadcasting of the parent CBS organization, said that he thought there was less excitement in television these days and that people were talking about it less. The solution, he said, was to stimulate more interest by presenting special programs — dramatic, documentary and cultural.

The theory, which has been quietly in practice for some time, is to build the big ratings and produce happy sponsors with "Bonanzas" and "Lucy Shows" and "Batman," while breaking the rhythm occasionally with something like "Death of a Salesman," the Lunts in a biographical drama or a recreation of Custer's last stand.

Opinion Makers

Television, while it is most concerned with reaching a big mass audience with run-of-the-mine shows, still doesn't want to lose completely that smaller group of listeners and viewers that Schneider recently called "the opinion makers."

One program designed to stir up the opinion makers was Friday night's "Sixteen in Webster Groves" which pre-empted a dramatic series. This was a documentary focusing on some of the 16-year-old high school pupils in a prosperous, upper-middle class St. Louis, Mo., suburb where half the families have incomes of more than $10,000.

These were not the sullen youngsters so often studied by television — the slum kids, the drop-outs, the problems. These were teen-agers aiming for college, concerned with their social lives and their parents' opinions of them.

Draft Physicals In Spring For College Seniors

ANN ARBOR (AP) —Graduating college seniors and graduate students will be given pre-induction physical examinations this spring, the deputy state Selective Service director says.

Col. W.J. Myers said draft boards also will send questionnaires to all undergraduates in the state asking about grades, when they expect to graduate and explanations for time spent away from school.

He indicated draft boards will start granting student deferments on a basis of class standing.

Meanwhile, the assistant to the University of Michigan vice president for academic affairs said the university would provide information to draft boards only if expressly requested by the student.

"Local draft boards have no jurisdiction over university academic records," Ernest Zimmermann said.

He said U-M has never provided information on student grades to draft boards without the student's approval.

Twins Exchange Student Roles

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Two New York City twins, Joe and Ed McDermott, secretly swapped places at Yale and Harvard because each wanted an inside view of the other's university.

They also wanted to see whether they could stand in for each other without being spotted.

Edward T. McDermott is a Harvard junior and his twin, Joseph P. McDermott is a junior at Yale.

They lived in each other's room, ate in each other's dining hall and attended each other's classes for seven days, and then this week returned to their respective campuses.

Both said the first few days went smoothly, that no one seemed to notice a thing.

Then Joe got a telephone call from a girl at Cambridge whom both he and Ed know, and she asked, "What's wrong with your voice?" Joe said he had a cold but he saw her again the next day.

She said she thought she was being taken in and demanded Joe's identification. Whereupon Joe produced Ed's wallet.

Meanwhile Ed began to have troubles of his own. He said he slipped up and introduced himself to a student at dinner and the student snapped: "I know who you are. I was in your room a few nights ago."

"Oh, yes. Excuse me," Ed said.

1890 JAIL

U Of M Seeking New President

ANN ARBOR (AP) —University of Michigan regents have asked for three advisory committees to help them select a successor to President Harlan Hatcher, scheduled to retire after U-M's year-long sesquicentennial celebration in 1967.

The regents asked for committees to be appointed by the Senate Advisory Committee on University Affairs, by the Student Government Council and Graduate Student Council, and by the Alumni Association.

Census By Mail To Cut Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — For most Americans the census taker in 1970 could turn out to be the postman.

Andrew F. Brimmer, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said a census by mail technique will represent a basic change in the enumerating process for the 1970 nose count.

In a talk prepared for a conference of population and housing census users, Brimmer said most Americans will answer the 1970 census by filling out a form delivered by the postman rather than face an enumerator for a personal interview.

"This system will save money and produce more reliable results," he said. "Some persons may be less inhibited in answering questions if they are merely filling out a form rather than facing an interviewer. After all, sometimes that interviewer is the person who lives next door."

Administration Sees Votes To Carry Viet Policy Fight

Williams To Announce Decision On March 7

DETROIT (AP) — Former Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams says he will announce March 7 whether he's going to run for the U.S. Senate, but few expect the man behind the polka dot tie to say anything but "yes."

Williams, known widely for his polka dot bow ties and nickname "Soapy," plans to start a swing through the state Wednesday, winding up in the Upper Peninsula Saturday. He's scheduled to return to Detroit Sunday.

The 55-year-old one-time boy wonder of Michigan politics won six straight terms as governor. He was one of the first to pledge his favorite son delegate votes to John F. Kennedy, and Kennedy named him assistant secretary of state for African Affairs, a post he has held since.

He'll fly to Washington Tuesday to testify before a House subcommittee on African affairs.

Today, a telephone survey will try to sound out Williams' strength.

Williams was long considered a potential candidate for the Senate and said earlier he'd consider running if Sen. Patrick V. McNamara decided not to try again. McNamara has announced he won't seek reelection in the fall. The 71-year-old Democrat said his health, among other things, prompted his decision.

A possible Democratic party split appeared in the making, since Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh indicated he might seek the nomination for the Senate. He, too, is expected to announce a decision in March.

Cavanagh reportedly has been under pressure to consider running for governor. Republican Gov. George Romney is expected to seek reelection and reportedly, some Democrats fear Romney could set off a Republican landslide if he doesn't have strong opposition.

Hoffa For Cavanagh

Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, a Detroit, has declared himself for Cavanagh. But Williams would be expected to keep much of the labor vote which carried him to Lansing six times. August Scholle, state AFL-CIO president, said he favored Williams.

Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers vice president, said he had been considering running for governor, but withdrew Saturday.

U.S. Rep. Robert Griffin, a five-term congressman from Traverse City, has been named the preferred candidate by state GOP leaders. However, Michigan State University professor Leroy Augenstein and Grand Rapids businessman Deane Baker have indicated they may force a Republican primary for the senatorial nomination.

U.P. Itinerary

G. Mennen Williams will arrive at Marquette County Airport at 11:30 a.m. Saturday on North Central Airlines and speak at a public luncheon at the Northland Hotel, Marquette, at noon, sponsored by the 11th District Democratic Committee. He will be accompanied by Congress Raymond Clevenger (D-Sault St. Marie.)

Williams will attend a reception at the John Voelker home in Ishpeming in the afternoon and speak at the ski tournament dinner in Iron Mountain Saturday night.

These stops will compose his U.P. tour itinerary in this period preceding his announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Reserve Board Nominee Called Middle-Roader

WASHINGTON (AP)—A middle-of-the road economist nominated for a seat on the Federal Reserve Board said today he will steer clear of what he termed the "great debate" on the nation's monetary policy.

Andrew J. Brimmer, now assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, was asked in an interview if he had taken a position on the issue of "tight" or "easy money."

"No, and I don't intend to — certainly not at this point," replied the 39-year-old former college professor.

President Johnson named Brimmer, a Negro, to a 14-year term on the seven-member board Saturday. If confirmed by the Senate, he will succeed C. Canby Balderston, whose term has expired, and will be the first Negro to serve on the board.

Board Criticized

Johnson criticized the board in December when it voted 4 to 3, with Balderston in the majority, to increase from 4 to 4½ per cent the discount rate banks pay the Federal Reserve when they borrow money.

This had the effect of pushing up the rate the individual borrower pays for credit.

In announcing the nomination, Johnson described Brimmer as a "man of moderation." Newsmen promptly placed the middle-of-the-road tag on Brimmer, and he doesn't object.

"I agree with that," Brimmer said. "I don't consider that a bad thing."

Brimmer turned aside other questions on the "tight money" issue, saying it would be inappropriate for him to "get into the affairs of the board."

"I want to look at the issues in a clear-headed manner as possible," he said.

"Commendable Record"

William McChesney Martin, Federal Reserve chairman who supported the discount rate increase, reportedly had expressed hope that Johnson would select a member of the business community to succeed Balderston.

But Martin hailed Brimmer's "very commendable record" as a member of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in 1955-58.

The bulk of Brimmer's economic experience has been in the academic field. He obtained bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Washington, a doctorate at Harvard, spent a year in India under a Fulbright scholarship and taught at the University of Washington, Harvard, College of New York, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of Pennsylvania.

Brimmer joined the Commerce Department three years ago. He frequently sat in on conferences with the President's Council of Economics Advisers and representatives of other agencies, including the Federal Reserve Board.

File Over 300 Claims On Car Accident Fund

LANSING (AP) — In its first two months of operation, Michigan's new Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund "is working much better than we expected," says Secretary of State James Hare.

"If license plate sales only worked as well..." Hare observed on this jammed final day to buy 1966 plates.

More than 300 claims have been filed by Michigan residents who seek reimbursement from the fund for property damage, injury or death costs caused by uninsured motorists.

One of the claims was paid only 33 days after the accident and half a dozen others are ready to be paid, Hare said.

He said processing thus far has gone smoothly and there have been few complaints from uninsured motorists about having to pay $35 into the fund.

Initiating a claim against the fund requires only sending a letter to the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, Michigan Department of State, Lansing, Michigan, 48918.

The letter should include:

—Your name, address, license plate number and vehicle serial number.

—Date, time and place of accident.

—Name of police department to which the accident was reported.

—Name, address and license plate number of owner and driver of the other vehicle, or any information known in the case of a hit-run accident.

—Name of your insurance company, policy number, name and address of agent and whether or not you carry uninsured motorist coverage.

The fund office will send you an application for payment from the fund. This requires a diagram of the accident and other pertinent information.

A claims adjuster will visit you, investigate the claim, talk with the uninsured party and attempt to negotiate an agreement on blame and amount of damages between the concerned parties.

Hare estimates that perhaps three-quarters of claims can be settled by agreement. In the others, court action will be necessary to determine amount of the claim.

Whether the amount is determined by negotiation or court action, the sum then is paid from the fund to the victim. The uninsured motorist must then begin to repay the fund.

The fund pays up to $10,000 for injuries or death of one person, $20,000 for all injuries and deaths in a single accident and up to $5,000 for property damage. Minimum property damage claim permitted is $200, and no property damage is paid in hit-run cases.

Expect Record Turnout In Soo Recall Election

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—Sault Ste. Marie voted today on the recall of Mayor David Foster, and authorities predicted a record turnout of approximately 6,000.

Foster's recall is sponsored by an organization known as Citizens for Civic Improvement Committee. It accuses Foster of failing to work constructively. He denies the charge.

A dentist, Foster was elected to a second term last November. He previously was mayor in 1957-59.

Apollo Win Is Step To Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The spectacularly successful maiden launching of an unmanned Apollo moonship has strengthened hopes that three men can ride one of the ships into earth orbit late this year and to the moon within two or three years.

A Saturn 1B, most powerful rocket ever launched by this nation, roared flawlessly through its initial launching Saturday and drilled the Apollo 310 miles into space.

The spacecraft made a fiery dive back through the atmosphere and was protected from searing temperatures up to 5,000 degrees by a heat shield.

The 11,000-pound cabin section, the part in which astronauts will ride toward the moon and back to earth, separated and rode three 83-foot parachutes to a gentle landing in the South Atlantic Ocean 5,300 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy. The flight lasted 39 minutes.

The cabin landed only 20 miles from the aiming point and the aircraft carrier Boxer had it aboard slightly more than two hours later. The carrier was returning the craft for more detailed examination.

SENATOR ROBERT Kennedy (D-New York) makes a point Sunday as he appears on the television-radio program "Face the Nation," aired by CBS. Discussing the future role of the Viet Cong in the Viet Nam government, he said he believed his position and that of the Johnson Administration had little differences—those of emphasis and not purpose. Seek To Free Two Embattled Money Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate argument over Viet Nam rolls toward a showdown today as administration forces seek to free a pair of embattled bills.

They appear to have the votes to carry both issues — an emergency $414-million foreign aid measure for Viet Nam now pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the $4.8-billion Viet Nam military authorization waiting action on the Senate floor.

The senators also may get a chance late today to vote on a proposal to rescind or modify the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution cited by President Johnson as giving him the authority to take any steps necessary to combat Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

One of the leading critics of the Johnson Viet Nam policies, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has promised to introduce the proposal in an amendment to the Viet Nam money bill.

If he does, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said he would counterattack with a substitute proposal to reaffirm the resolution. Russell said he has the votes to win.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy tangled further Sunday over a possible future role for the Viet Cong in the South Vietnamese government.

Kennedy, a New York Democrat, suggested again that in order to negotiate a peace in South Viet Nam, the United States "must understand that the Communists. . .might end up in some way or another within the governmental structure of Viet Nam."

Debate Continues

Humphrey, who initially attacked Kennedy's proposal as being equivalent to putting "a fox in a checken coop," said on ABC's television-radio program "Issues and Answers" that his first assessment might have been "a little too genteel.

"The Viet Cong is not a fox," Humphrey said. "It has a more rapacious nature."

"The Viet Cong is not an Asian version of the Americans for Democratic Action or the liberal wing of the Republican or Democratic party," he said. "They engage in assassination, murder, pillage, conquest and I can't, for the life of me, see why the United States would want to propose that such an outfit be part of any government."

Kennedy, appearing on CBS' radio-television program "Face the Nation," said he thought his Viet Nam position and that of the Johnson administration, as spelled out by presidential aide Bill D. Moyers, are essentially the same.

But he added there is a great difference between what he believes and the statements made by such administration spokesmen as Humphrey, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

"Perhaps Mr. Moyers and I are closer together than some of the other spokesmen are to one another," Kennedy said. Without specifically referring to Humphrey, he added:

Image Building

"I think that statements that are made that we will never deal with assassins or murderers make it difficult for them (the Viet Cong) to believe that they are being asked to come to the negotiating table for anything other than to surrender."

Communist China, speaking through its official New China News Agency, termed Kennedy's proposal a trial balloon and said the Vietnamese people never will agree to the Viet Cong "playing a walk-on part as a showpiece in a puppet regime fostered by the United States."

A Republican organization joined in and accused both Humphrey and Kennedy of building up their images at the expense of U.S. foreign policy. The two are considered by some to be front runners in the race for the Democratic presidential

Air Lift Yanks To Battle; Cong Strike Shipping

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Three companies of U.S. Marines lifted into action by helicopter battled a Viet Cong main-force unit today 55 miles from the North Viet Nam border.

The fight still raged at nightfall after more than six hours of shooting. A Marine spokesman at Da Nang said 40 Communists were killed, against light Leatherneck losses. The Marines also captured 40 weapons, including one crew-served piece of equipment.

The new outbreak of fighting in the northernmost province followed a fierce action before dawn in which 470 South Vietnamese infantry troops and militiamen with the help of fighter-bombers and artillery turned back a stiff attack by a Communist force twice their number on a refugee settlement area 75 miles northeast of Saigon.

Only 17 miles from the 17th-Parallel frontier with the Communist North, battalions of government troops on a weeklong hunt for the Reds in Quang Tri Province were reported in heavy fighting. A government spokesman said the South Vietnamese soldiers were encircling 200 Viet Cong, elements of two Communist battalions they had hit earlier.

Another 54 Viet Cong were killed in the day's fighting, bringing the total Communist dead since last Tuesday to 344, the spokesman said. The U.S. 7th Fleet has supported the government operations with coastal shelling.

The Marines called for artillery and air strikes after they landed on a peninsula about six miles southeast of the Marine enclave at Phu Bai near the old imperial capital of Hue, 400 miles northeast of Saigon. The enemy was described as a hard-core force of about 400 troops.

The Marines are part of a task force, including a battalion of Vietnamese troops, that has been hunting the Viet Cong since Friday.

Kill Refugees

An estimated 900 to 1,000 Viet Cong struck from three directions at 1:15 a.m. against the "new life" hamlet of Vo Xu, in coastal Binh Tuy Province. Prongs simultaneously hit a 120-man militia post and 350-man infantry battalion, both part of the village's defenses.

It was the first regimental-size attack by the Communists against a government resettlement area in months. They used mortars and 50-caliber machine guns, setting huts aflame and killing an undetermined number of refugees.

The Viet Cong charged the hamlet three times. Each time they were hurled back as well-placed air strikes and artillery rounds supported the beleaguered defenders.

Since last Tuesday 264 Viet Cong have been killed and 55 weapons captured in fighting along the coast only a few miles south of the 17th Parallel frontier with North Viet Nam, the spokesman said. The U.S. 7th Fleet has supported the government operations with coastal shelling.

The Strategic Air Command's B52 bombers edged closer to the Laotian frontier this morning, dropping their big bombs on a suspected Viet Cong staging and storage area in central Kontum Province.

Use New Jets

An Air Force spokesman said the strike was directed at curbing the flow of supplies into the country from the north along the Ho Chi Minh Trail, which winds down the jungles of western Laos.

For the first time the Air Force's lightweight F5 Freedom Fighter jets joined the air attacks against the North, hitting a road complex 60 miles south of Vinh. The small fighter-bombers have been operating within South Viet Nam since Nov. 1 on a trial basis.

They cost far less and are simpler to maintain than the F4C Phantom and F105 Thunderchief jets that have borne a heavy share of the campaign against the Communist North. The single F5 squadron in the war theater flies out of Da Nang.

Other Air Force and Navy planes pounded the North Sunday after a partial lull in bombardment caused by heavy overcast and rain. Jets from the carriers Ranger and Hancock flew 17 missions. A spokesman said they destroyed the Phuoc Kien highway bridge 20 miles southwest of Dong Hoi and cratered the approaches to two other spans. The Navy pilots also said they cut 10 road segments and cratered six ferry landing approaches.

Hit Freighter

On the ground, the Viet Cong smothered the 173rd Airborne company with a blanket of fire in the weekend fighting. When the Communists finally retreat-

Labor Debates Curb In Strikes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The AFL-CIO Executive Council takes up another sore point with the White House today in discussing President Johnson's antistrike proposal.

"There are grave problems for the government, labor, industry and the states" in any such new legislation, a spokesman for AFL-CIO President George Meany said.

Although the labor leaders say they have no details on what Johnson might recommend to Congress, they fear any antistrike legislation would curb their ultimate weapon.

Discussion of Johnson's antistrike proposal comes after two weeks of sniping between the AFL-CIO and the Johnson administration over White House efforts to hold down wage increases, how much of a minimum-wage increase should be recommended to Congress, and complaints that the Democratic administration has not lived up to its political promises to labor.

Refuse Guidelines

Although no legislation reportedly is being drafted at the moment to curb strikes, the Labor Department has been working on drafts that could lead to a bill for Congress to consider.

Johnson first broached the proposal in his State of the Union message, saying he would ask Congress to consider measures to deal with strikes that threaten irreparable harm to the national interest.

On the economic front, AFL-CIO leaders still refuse to accept White House guidelines that attempt to hold wage increases to 3.2 per cent a year.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Sunday that "We've got to press harder" to persuade both labor and business to hold down wage and price increases that threaten inflation.

Minimum Formula

Wirtz, target of some harsh statements by Meany and other AFL-CIO leaders after he had spoken to them here, said in Washington on "Meet the Press" over NBC: "We're not in a popularity contest."

But on the dispute over the amount of a minimum-wage increase, sources close to Meany leaked word that the AFL-CIO is ready to compromise by accepting increases in the present $1.25 federal minimum wage to $1.40 this year, $1.50 next year and $1.60 in 1968.

The White House position reportedly has been for an increase to $1.40 this year, $1.60 in 1968 — with no increase in 1967.

Wirtz is due here again Tuesday to address a meeting of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, but there's no report that a meeting with Meany is scheduled.

Marine Veteran Says:

Morale In Viet Nam Not Hurt By 'Card Burners'

Draft card burners in the United States "have no effect on the morale of the fighting men in Viet Nam," believes Lance Corporal Jerry Sprague, 20, U. S. Marine, who is in Escanaba on leave after nine months in Viet Nam.

"The way I look at it, they are afraid or don't want to be drafted and they represent a minority protest," said Jerry, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sprague of 1209 S. 15th St.

Cpl. Sprague arrived home from Viet Nam last week and will spend 30 days here before reporting to the Marine base at Quantico, Va. Six months more and he will have completed his "hitch" in the Marines and will be eligible for discharge.

Tour Of Japan

Now beginning to unwind after his months in Viet Nam, Sprague talks freely about some of his experiences, but is reluctant to discuss some other aspects of the conflict there. He is emphatic about one thing, however:

"While the peace marchers and draft card burners get plenty of publicity, we wonder if the people involved in them really know there's a job to be done over there — and we feel sometimes that it is not being done quickly enough," said the young Marine.

Sprague entered the Marines in the fall of 1963 after graduating in June of that year from Escanaba Area High School. In High School he had played trombone in the marching band and was a member of the High School golf team for three years.

His musical background led him naturally into the Marine Band as first trombone. He was at San Diego and then Camp Pendleton for six months — and with the band was sent to Japan for "good will tours" that seemed to pay off if the warmth of the Japanese welcome and friendship was any indication, he said.

Security Guard

"We were very well received everywhere in Japan," he said. Christmas 1964 was spent in Tokyo — and Christmas 1965 was to be Viet Nam.

"We knew it was inevitable," he said. "We were just as glad. You hate to keep waiting around."

They arrived in Da Nang in June, 1965, and Sprague was assigned to Headquarters Squadron One, part of the First Marine Aircraft Wing which supports the U. S. Marine and Republic of South Veit Nam Army operations in central Viet Nam. He was advanced to the rank of lance corporal in August last year.

On security guard for an area of Da Nang from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., the young Marine experienced sniper fire — "harrassment fire" —he calls it. "About once a month the Viet Cong dropped bombs on Da Nang."

Situation Improved

Daytime temperatures soared to a 136 degrees. The nights with their watchfulness for the Viet Cong were humid and wearying. Sprague's feet became affected with "jungle rot" — a fungus ailment that can erode the flesh to the bones. He was on crutches for a month.

The rainy season came, turning the region into a quagmire of mud until about January 1, when the rains ceased.

"Around Da Nang there was an improvement in the situation as the war was carried northward," Sprague reported. The night raids dwindled. Strengthened free Vietnamese morale was indicated in their attitude toward the U. S. — they permitted the American flag to be raised along with their own as allies in the fight against the Viet Cong.

Now home on leave, Sprague is enjoying renewing friendships and the association with his parents and his sister, Sue, a senior in High School, his older brother, Tom, and Steve, in kindergarten, youngest in the family.

"WIRED DOLLS" that exploded when their arms were moved were part of the terror tactics of the Viet Cong. A doll of this type is held by Lance Corporal Jerry Sprague of Escanaba, who is home on leave after 10 months in Viet Nam. (Daily Press Photo)

Rash Of Cottage Breakins Probed

State Police and Delta County Sheriff's officers continued an investigation today into a rash of cottage breakins reported in Delta County over the weekend.

At least nine breakins have been confirmed — five on Stonington Peninsula. Two each were reported in Bark River and Nahma Townships.

State Police identified six of the owners as Edwin Matson, Chicago, Ill.; Victor Lachet, Dayton, O.; John Heiden, 1518 1st Ave. S., Escanaba; Thomas Winker, Rte. 1, Gladstone; Joseph Casimir, Rte. 1, Rapid River, and Francis Houle, Rte. 1, Gladstone.

Troopers said Matson's camp is located in Section 23, Nahma Township, and the rest are on the Stonington Peninsula. A second Nahma Township breakin at a cottage near Indian Point owned by C. J. Johnson, 1314 1st Ave. S., Escanaba, was reported to Sheriff's officers.

Sheriff C. A. (Cully) Johnson said that Johnson's camp was ransacked. A complete inventory of property missing has not been taken. State Police reported that whiskey, ammunition and many miscellaneous items are missing from the other six cottages.

A single-shot, 20-gauge shotgun was reported stolen from a camp in Bark River Township owned by Clarence DeMarse, Rte. 1, Bark River, sheriff's officers said. A heater and cook stove were missing from another camp owned by Gerris Gregritch, Rte. 1, Bark River.

The breakings occurred sometime during the past month, deputies said.

Entry in all cases was gained by breaking glass in windows or prying doors, police said.

U.P. Conference Urges

Strengthening The Family

By JEAN WORTH

MARQUETTE — The Upper Peninsula's first inning of a state effort to strengthen family life was played at Northern Michigan University here on Saturday and drew 90 persons from throughout the Peninsula to discuss the problem and possible remedies.

There was general agreement that there is a breakdown of family life — which is revealed in the divorce, juvenile delinquency and crime rates — but there was not so much agreement about what can be done about it, and even less about what to do.

The conferees went home to set up meetings in the 6 community action districts of the Upper Peninsula to plan action programs to strengthen family living. The Michigan Human Resources Council, which sponsored the Saturday conference with the aid of the four universities serving the U.P., will send speakers to the regional meetings in March, which will be prelude to a state-wide conference on the subject April 2 in Lansing.

Schooling Urged

NMU Vice President Claud Bosworth called for findings of the area meetings of the conference. Elsewhere in the state the Governor's conferences on "Strengthening the Family" have accented a suggestion that Michigan should undertake family living education in the public schools, from the elementary grades through college.

The U.P. conference also suggested this as one way to help check the erosion of family strength. There are 60 institutions of higher education in Michigan and only three of them have family living departments in their curriculums. Governor Romney has declared that as the family deteriorates, so will society and he has called for a strong state effort to bolster family living as a curb on crime and social instability. His Human Resources Council has made it one of its major objectives.

Actions Suggested

Other suggestions for the strengthening of family living in the U.P.:

- Changing the laws which exempt some jobs from the minimum wage act, because these are the jobs that problem family members tend to get.
- Create a code of behavior.
- Return fathers to their role of family authority.
- Restrict school takeover of education that can be handled by the family. (This contradicts the suggestion that schools teach family living.)
- Provide more educational materials, more newspapers and magazine in homes.
- Start training for parenthood early.
- Give parents a role in Project Head Start (a preschool health check and training for children.)

Community Schools

- Investigate the community school program as an aid to family living.
- Enroll the service clubs in family aid programs.
- Work with low income families.
- Involve the churches much more in the problems of the family.
- Proclaim a Family Week.
- Have cities' aid outlying areas.
- Enroll more groups in study and solution of the family deterioration problem.
- Research modern family living to identify its weaknesses and failures "so that we'll know what to do about it."

No War On Poverty

Harold McKinney, executive secretary of the Michigan Human Resources Council, cautioned the conference not to link the effort to improve family living only to an anti-poverty program. He declared that the problem is not restricted to families of low income, althougr it is commonplace there, and that every economic, social and educational agency should be involved in the effort to bolster the family as the foundation unit of the nation's social structure.

The conference spent as much time inspecting family problems as seeking remedies and seemed to feel that it still didn't have a clear enough knowledge of the problem to plan a comprehensive remedy. Its discussion groups on discipline, inadequate income, apathy, pressures on children, cultural differences and training for parenthood, suggested:

Study Reports

- Family problems are symptomatic and reflect the social structure.
- Social values are relatives and difficult for parents to pass on to children.
- Many efforts attempt to impose middle class standards on a lower income class with which it has almost no communication.
- We cannot expect family strength when we value money more than people.
- Religion should work a 7-day week.
- Teen agers aren't trained for parenthood; why wouldn't they make a lot of mistakes?

Democratic Families

- Parents who teach lack of respect for the law cannot expect their children to respect it.
- Families are much more democratic than formerly; children are asked what they want in life.
- Communication between parents and children has been lost. (There was no agreement whether children contributed most to this dislocation, or parents.)
- The difference in education between generations (with youth better schooled than parents) makes youth rebellious.

Crime Is Cited

Mrs. Loa Whitfield of Michigan State University introduced the group reporters and summed up and Dr. Jane Bemis of NMU, a roving reporter, said the discussion groups found parents interested in their families and "they want to do well, but they may need help."

Bernard Houston, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services, the general sessions speaker, said that the clergy had suggested the series of state conferences on strengthening the family. The need for them, he said is evident in the report that persons 16 years old or younger accounted for 56 per cent of crimes in Micrigan last year. "We can't catch up by building correctional institutions,' said Houston.

New Methods

"This is not crime just in the slums," said Houston. "It is not just in family of lowest income level. We are all affected by the forces that are breaking down family life, causing these broken homes, this mental illness, these irresponsible parents. The Family Society of America has said 'We cannot take the vitality of the American family for granted. We must find new ways to strengthen the institutions close to the family; the churches and the schools and the others.' "

The conference's discussion groups, their organizers and leaders, with chairmen named first, included:

Discipline, Michigan Tech Sault Branch, Earl Enge, Stephen Youngs, Charles Walker.

Inadequate Income, Bay de Noc Community College, Escanaba, Rev. Everett Wilson, Lyle Plowman, Urban Steinmetz, Wallace Cameron, Anita Kotila.

Two Boys Admit Passing 7 Checks To Area Stores

Two Escanaba boys, one 15 years old and the other 16, have admitted passing seven no account checks in the Escanaba area during January and February, State Police of the Gladstone Post reported.

The youths were picked up Saturday and turned over to Probate Court juvenile authorities.

Total amount of the checks has not been determined because the checks have not been picked up from three establishments, police said. Four checks turned in totaled $65.72.

Checks were passed at the Wildwood Country Kitchen, Hermansville, Novak's Gas Station, Perronville; Dehlin Drug Store, Gladstone; Ivory Drug Store, Gladstone; Longtine's Grocery, Wells; Viau's Market, Escanaba, and Roadside Market, Hyde.

Bobby Kennedy's Plan

The late President John F. Kennedy would never join the Americans for Democratic Action, an ultra liberal wing of the Democratic Party which made quite a little political mischief for him. But Senator Robert Kennedy chose this group, which had been critical of him and which had withheld its endorsement of his candidacy for the Senate, as a sounding board for a disagrement with the Johnson Administration about how to make peace in Viet Nam.

The action shows the political stance today of Bobby Kennedy, who was once more conservative than his late brother, but who has been trending leftward for several years.

Bobby Kennedy urged that the Communists in South Viet Nam be given "a share of the power and responsibility" there. He would admit the National Liberation Front, which is a political faction in South Viet Nam created and controlled by the Communists in North Viet Nam, to the peace table and to a coalition government to run South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

The Johnson Administration wheeled out some of its biggest guns to blast this idea. The confusion that resulted is indicated by contrasting headlines on editorials in Michigan's metropolitan press:

Detroit News: "Bobby's Sellout Plan."

Detroit Free Press: "Kennedy's Viet Proposal Recognizes Facts of Life."

The News cited that Undersecretary of State George Ball said a coalition regime would inevitably turn into a Red government.

The Free Press said "Since almost every Viet Nam expert except those in the Johnson Administration agrees that the Viet Cong would win a free election today, it would be impossible to kill or repress all their supporters without destroying the country. And if we are unwilling to turn the country over to them, the only alternative is to share."

★ ★ ★

President Johnson can hardly justify fighting a war whose peace turns the country over to the Reds, but he is caught in an inconsistency here because Secretary of State Rusk told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that we would stand by the result of a free election in South Viet Nam.

This doesn't square with the rejection of the Kennedy proposal by Vice President Humphrey, Ball and McGeorge Bundy, the President's retiring special assistant, because a coalition government in South Viet Nam appears a likelihood in any free election under conditions now existing.

Administration spokesmen rejected the Kennedy proposal on the grounds that you do not make concessions before you go to the conference table and that a coalition government would end up as a Communist government.

On the first objection Kennedy reasoned that we must tell enough of our intentions to North Viet Nam to get it to the peace table. The administration's second objection was defensive of its difficult position but contradictory in terms. We say that we fight in South Viet Nam to make it possible for that nation to make a free choice of its form of government and, that that being done, we will depart.

We are sincere in this, but if the result is to be assuredly Communistic we are engaged in an academic exercise that cannot justify our expenditures in blood and money and its architects will certainly be called to critical account by the nation.

Fish Vulnerable Again

Spawning Runs Are On

By LEE SMITS

Spawning runs are on. Billions of fish eggs are spilled out, most of them in what seems like a haphazard manner. If half of the eggs developed into mature fish it would be a disaster on a colossal scale. Michigan lakes and streams would swarm with starveling fish, runts that could never attain legal size.

Within the range of living memory so much has been done to annihilate fish populations that it is nothing less than miraculous that our fish prospects actually are brighter than ever. It would be interesting to trace the history of scientific fish management to discover just when the big change came about.

Spawning fish are vulnerable, and the removal of adults by the ton was killing the goose on her way to lay the golden egg. By spear and net, by hook, line, shotgun and dynamite, spawners were slaughtered. Pike shoving their way into marshes were gunned. As soon as interior lakes were free of ice, spear-wielders with flares cruised shoal water at night until their boats were heaped high with fish.

Pike have been taken off the list of fish that can be taken in the Great Lakes by commercial fishermen. Not only is the pike now recognized as a top game fish, on par in every respect with muskellunge, but pike serve a vital purpose in controlling fish populations. Not enough pike means too many small fish that can't grow up because there isn't enough for them to eat.

The Conservation Department is carrying on an ambitious program to encourage pike. For the current fiscal year $120,000 has been allotted for cooperative projects to increase pike spawning marshes. Roger W. Wicklund, in charge of fish habitant management, has been gathering data on the pike potential of interior lakes, lining up groups willing to match state funds.

For 10 years the number of fishing licenses purchased in Michigan fell off. There is now a rise in the curve. One thing for sure about all kinds of sport fishing in our state; more and more know-how is required. Dedicated fishermen keep on having "good luck," whether they are after speckled trout with dry flies or bluegill with worms. "Fished-out" water is a myth.

Here is information of interest to Michigan anglers, provided by H. Kelso Roberts, minister of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

Ontario commercial fishermen took $5,185,000 worth of fish in a year, Lake Erie supplying more than half of the total, and Erie is about to be rescued — it is hoped — from ruinous pollution.

Perhaps no lake in North America is better fish habitat than Lake St. Clair. Record muskellunge, limits of perch and small-mouth bass are taken, year after year, within sight of the Detroit skyline. Early French settlers, hauling seines in Lake St. Clair had their nets so jam-packed with fish that they often tore apart. Yet, after more than 250 years of intensive fishing, the Canadian waters of Lake St. Clair have yielded an annual commercial catch totalling 55,000 pounds, including 21,000 pounds of walleyes or yellow pickerel: 62,000 pounds of catfish; 1,000 pounds of sturgeon; 60,000 pounds of sunfish; 3,000 pounds of pike.

★ ★ ★

In Ontario, and in Michigan, there has been a conflict of interest between sports fishing and commercial fishing in Great Lakes waters, with sports fishing gettting more and more of a break in legislative action and management.

Fish planting programs in Michigan are carried on cautiously, with a lot of scientific testing.

For the second year more than a million coho salmon fry will be released in Torch and Higgins lakes in April, with similar annual plantings scheduled for two more years. You can't get a Conservation Department Fish Division man to make predictions about the coho. Their fingers are crossed—but they're beaming with hope. There is no reason not to expect that coho salmon may do as well in Michigan as rainbow trout, introduced from California. If the species takes hold in Higgins and Torch lakes, Michigan will have a source of spawn for plantings in other suitable waters.

We have such a wealth of water that no one, they say, is ever more than six miles distant from some kind of fishing in Michigan. All that is needed is sound management, rational controls, now being applied, and fishing in our state should get better and better as the years roll on.

Peeking Into Mail

Tipped off by a suspicious mailman, postal agents opened a packet which a woman mailed — first class — to her husband.

Sure enough, the packet contained illicit heroin. But when the woman was brought to trial on a narcotics charge, evidence of the find was thrown out of court and she went free.

The court was not being "soft" on narcotics. What troubled the court was the government's violation of the privacy of first class mail. Such an intrusion was held to be an "unreasonable search and seizure" — forbidden by the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution.

★ ★ ★

This Amendment grew out of colonial bitterness against the infamous "writs of assistance," under which British officials had free rein in searching private homes.

And, almost a century ago, the Supreme Court made it clear that the Amendment protects not only your residence but your first class mail as well. In the Court's words:

"The right of the people to be secure against unreasonable searches and seizures extends to their papers, thus closed against inspection, wherever they may be."

On the other hand, there is no such protection for mail other than first class. Furthermore in the interest of combating crime, even first class mail may be searched if authorities first obtain a warrant. Then the search would not be "unreasonable," because the warrant would be issued only if there was reasonable ground to believe the law had been violated.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, the government may impose what is called a "mail watch" to help in tracking down wrongdoers. In this procedure, a record is kept of the name and address of everyone who sends mail to the person under surveillance.

Not long ago the mail watch was challenged in court as at least a partial invasion of the privacy of first class mail. But the court upheld the government, saying:

"It was not prying into their secrets to note what the senders had made public on the face of the letters."

And there, generally speaking, is where the law draws the line today. The government may gather the information you place on the outside of an envelope, but must not peek within. That dab of mucilage on the flap, buttressed by the constitutional commandment, is one of the mightiest barriers on earth.

Husbands: Time To Check Your Wallet

Dear Ann Landers: I hope your readers will learn something from my bitter experience.

Last week my husband was driving home on slippery pavement. His car went out of ontrol and he hit a telephone pole. They called me from the hospital and said he was in critical condition. When I arrived my husband was in surgery, where he remained for almost two hours. I prayed the whole time.

I was in the corridor when they brought him down. The doctor said he had a good chance to recover. Then a nurse handed me his watch and billfold. Well, Ann, he has recovered, but I don't know if I ever will.

In his billfold were two letters from a woman with whom he obviously had had an affair. She was begging him to come back. I did not recognize her name and don't know if she lives in this city or elsewhere since there was no envelope.

I am crushed to think that my husband would have deceived me this way. Our 22-year marriage was considered ideal by everyone who knew us.

Yesterday he asked me for his billfold. When I handed it to him he wanted to know if I had seen the contents. I said, "Yes." He told me how horribly ashamed he was and swore that he had not seen the woman since December and that he would never see her again.

I am trying to believe in him and trust him once more. I guess the real lesson to be learned here is this: Never carry anything with you that you would not be willing to let the whole world see. Lord alone knows when your next of kin might be handed the damning evidence. — VICTIM OF FATE

Dear Husbands: How many of you could hand your wallet to your wife at this very moment and not be concerned about what she may find?

If you can't, you'd better do something about it. Like now.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: Maybe I'm a nut to let this bother me but it does and I want your opinion.

My name is Florence and I like the name. When anyone calls me Flo I bristle inside because I detest that nickname. And I absolutely despise the nickname Flossie.

Our daughter's name is Katherine. I loathe the names Kathy, Kate, Katie, and Kay. My daughter loathes them also. She is only eight years old but she knows what she likes.

Yesterday Katherine came from school and told me that a new girl named Katherine had joined the class and the teacher has decided to call our Katherine Kathy in order to avoid confusion.

This infuriated me. I want to write a note to the teacher telling her to call our daughter by her correct name. My husband says I'm making too much of it and to leave things as they are.

What do you say?—LIVID

Dear Livid: Yes, you are a nut to let this bother you but at least you admit that your hostility is grossly out of proportion to the "injustice."

Now that you have effectively transferred your nuttiness about nicknames to your own daughter, please let the poor, innocent teacher in on it. She can then call the other Katherine Kathy and everyone will be happy.

The Doctor Says:

Bedwetting Problem

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

The problem of bedwetting in children appears to be more complex than it was once thought to be. There is undoubtedly an emotional factor in many, and probably most, cases.

Too much emphasis on toilet training before a child reaches his third birthday, instead of preventing bedwetting, may aggravate it. Most children will establish the habit of staying dry all night spontaneously by the time they are 5.

There are a variety of devices that set off an alarm when the first stream of urine completes an electric circuit. These have the disadvantage of alerting the child and/or parents just a little too late and are not widely recommended.

The urologists (kidney and bladder specialists) are entering the picture in ever-increasing numbers with evidence to show that a very narrow urinary outlet, a hard fact to determine, is a possible cause.

In other children, a small bladder or a bladder irritation may be a factor. The small outlet and the bladder irritation, if present, are not hard to cure but the size of the bladder, if it can be modified at all, requires years of training by holding the urine for long periods after the initial urge to urinate. Even this type of training must be carefully supervised or kidney complications could arise.

Finally, in a large number of cases, it is shown that there is no organic disease. If this is so, the drug imipramine may be helpful. It must, however, be used under careful medical supervision.

Q—My daughter died at age 2 of a Wilm's tumor. The doctor said it was discovered too late. Since I now have two boys (ages 1 and 2.) could you tell me what symptoms to look for? Does this disease run in certain families?

A—Cancer of the kidney in early childhood (Wilm's tumor) is diagnosed by feeling a hard, nontender mass in the kidney region, usually on one side only. Blood may appear in the urine, but, when this occurs, if it is due to a Wilm's tumor, the disease is too far advanced for treatment to be effective. The cause is unknown but there is no evidence that it runs in families.

As soon as the diagnosis is made, the tumor should be removed. This should be followed by deep X-ray therapy over the kidney region. Recent reports indicate that, in addition to these measures, giving dactinomycin improves the victim's chances for survival.

Normal Again

OSTO N(AP)—How does it feel for a 20-year-old to be shorn of his Beatle-type hairdo?

"It's wonderful to feel normal again," said Fred Crowley of Milton, Mass. "You get tired of people asking you if you're a girl or a boy."

Said his friend, Rickie Chilsholm of Boston: "Oh, man, I feel as if I just walked out of the woods."

The youths, who had their hair cut are sophomores at Bryant College and members of a rock 'n' roll group. They had thought their Beatle cuts might be an attraction for the music group.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — G. Mennen Williams, whose position as Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs entitles him to travel first class at all times, likes to save the government money whenever possible by flying tourist class.

When Williams' plane touched down recently in an African country, a distinguished crowd of cabinet ministers, the chief of protocol, the U. S. ambassador and embassy personnel was waiting.

They were all lined up along a red carpet which had been unrolled for Williams. It swept up unswervingly, of course, to the first - class unit. Williams, unfortunately, disembarked from the tourist section in the back of the plane.

The ensuing race under the wing of the plane to regroup in the correct place did not set any protocol marks, but it certainly established a new high in confusion.

NMU Board For Job Corps Unit

MARQUETTE — New fringe benefits for Northern Michigan University employes, the naming of the new science building in honor of Dr. Luther S. West, and appointments to several top administrative positions were approved Thursday by the Northern Michigan University Board of Control.

The Board approved President Edgar L. Harden's recommendation that the University establish medical and life insurance benefits for all employes.

Effective July 1, the university will pay one-fourth of the cost of group medical insurance for single-subscriber coverage, and the total cost of a $3,000 double-indemnity life insurance program. Eventually, the university will assume total cost of the medical insurance program.

The $3,000,000 science building scheduled for completion next August will bear the name of Luther S. West, Northern's first dean of arts and science who retired last June and continues to reside in Marquette.

The Board appointed Dr. David W. D. Dickson, to succeed Dr. West as dean of arts and science; Dr. Thomas Griffith, head of NMU's Chemistry Department, was named associate dean of arts and science and head of chemistry; Dr. Wilbert A. Berg, head of Northern's Department of Psychology and Education as acting dean of education; Dr. James L. Rapport as head of the Speech Department.

Discussing the Job Corps Training Center for Women, President Harden said "the Center will be the first of its kind in the nation operated solely by a university on a university campus. It will be watched closely as a pilot project in education and the war on poverty.'

Dr. Harden said the program carries "the challenge of breaking new ground in education, of giving new direction to many lives, and of developing a new weapon against poverty."

The Board gave its "full support" to the establishment of the Center.

The Office of Economic Opportunity has allocated $2,875,100 for the first 17 months of the program which now awaits approval by the Governor.

Ogden E. Johnson, Ishpeming, chairman of the NMU Board, said support for the center was given "after careful study, recognizing that this program presents an unusual opportunity for service to society and offers a means for unique research in the development of human resources, to which the university is dedicated."

He said the Board was "not unaware of questions concerning the cost, facilities, and the chance for success of the program." He said that this was a "pioneering program" to help disadvantaged girls become responsible and self-supporting. "Otherwise, they would be on relief."

Johnson cited a Michigan Welfare League estimate that "it costs $86,000 in terms of present rates to keep a person on relief for life. Looking at it purely from a material view, he said, giving these people a chance to learn new skills, to become self-supporting, and to enter a new way of life is less costly.

Black Muslim Leader Scores Dr. M. L. King

CHICAGO (AP)—The leader of the Black Muslims, a Negro supremacy sect, says Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. doesn't understand the Negro's problems.

"Every white man is taking a pot shot on the highway at the Negro seeking his rights," Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad said Sunday at the windup of a two-day convention.

Muhammad, 68, said of the Negro Baptist minister: "King is a very nice man, but he comes from very unfriendly people. King doesn't understand the Negro's problem. King says he loves whites and he wants to be their brother."

King, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, met here with Muhammad last week. King spends three days a week in Chicago working to eliminate slums.

Muhammad drew bursts of applause from the 6,000 followers in the Coliseum with frequent digs at the white man during a rambling 3-hour and 45-minute speech.

No Price Rise For January

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rise in consumer prices halted in January for the first time since last summer, the Labor Department announced today.

The consumer price index leveled off at 111 per cent of the 1957-59 average, where it stood in December. This was 1.9 per cent above a year ago.

Labor Department officials said the report was "gratifying after four consecutive months of increase."

Arthur Ross, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, told reporters: "I would caution you not to make too much of this; we do not believe it is too significant."

Syrian Regime Moves To Left

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Leaders of the military coup last week say their regime will move Syria closer to the Communist bloc.

The government newspaper Al Thawra announced Sunday that Syria "will look more positively to the Socialist (Communist; countries to bring about a practical formula for a joint struggle against world imperialism."

The new regime "will also try to consolidate economic and technical cooperation within the Socialist experiment with the Socialist camp," the newspaper said.

The new government's first foreign-policy announcement appeared to confirm reports that the left-wing officers who ousted Gen. Amin Hafez did so to counteract what they considered a slowing down of socialism under his regime.

Life Stake In Search

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Robert F. Allen is still seeking the "right person" today who might save his life. In the past two days a ray of hope has brightened his search.

Allen, 28, a Tucson insurance executive, has osteogenic sarcoma, a rare type of bone cancer, and has been given two to six months to live by his doctors.

Allen, who has had one leg amputated, has received about 90 telephone calls from the people wanting to help.

A spokesman for Allen and his wife said this in itself is remarkable, since only those who suffer from the same type of cancer can help the stricken man.

The person Allen seeks must also have O-positive blood.

Allen said 10 of the volunteers may be able to help him and he will discuss their offers with his doctors.

If the donor meets the requirements, and agrees with Allen to undergo a new cancer treatment, both of them may live.

Dr. Sigmund H. Nadler and Dr. George E. Moore, of the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y., have performed a successful tumor transplant operation.

The doctors said they have found that antibodies can be generated to combat tumors by transplanting them from one patient to another.

White blood cells, which carry the antibodies, can be withdrawn from one patient and given to the other to destroy his cancer and vice versa.

Moore and Nadler said their treatment worked in the case of a woman with skin cancer. Although Allen has bone cancer, Nadler has agreed to perform the treatment on him and another patient.

"I don't care if the chances are 100 to 1 against it," Allen said. "It would be better than the 100-to-nothing odds I am facing now."

In 1737 New York City's first fire department was organized, made up of "42 strong, able, discreet, honest and sober men".

Russian Probes Due Near Venus

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet space probes are supposed to be nearing Venus. The first may pass the cloud-draped planet within the next few days, perhaps Tuesday.

The second, launched into an orbit around the sun four days after the first, is due near Venus about Saturday.

The Soviets have made no official announcements on the progress of the two Venus probes since Dec. 24 when they were about a third of the way to Venus.

But Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, told a news conference Feb. 10 that both satellites were due near Venus about March 1. He said radio communication with both probes was continuing.

Venus 2 and Venus 3 were launched last Nov. 12 and Nov. 16 in an effort "to add to our knowledge and obtain additional information about Venus and outer space," according to a brief, vague official announcement.

The most spectacular scientific data on Venus to date has come from the U.S. Mariner 2 satellite which passed within 21,648 miles of the planet on Dec. 14, 1962.

The U.S. probe showed that Venus has a surface temperature of about 800 degrees Fahrenheit, hot enough to melt lead and far too hot for any form of life known on earth.

Western experts say the Soviets have tried at least six unannounced Venus shots that failed.

Must Conform To Dog Laws, Officer Warns

Owners of impounded dogs in the future must show proof of license and pay $3 to recover their dog from the pound, Officer Hector Larson, Delta County dog warden, said today.

He warned that letting dogs run at large is a violation of state and local laws. Dogs must be confined or under the reasonable control of their owners at all times.

Dogs must be licensed also. As of Tuesday the dog licenses must be obtained at the office of the Delta County treasurer in the Court House. The fees are $2 for a male or spayed female; and $4 for a female.

Larson said that parents, not their children are responsible for the licensing and control of the family dog.

Seek To Free Two Embattled Money Bills

nomination after Johnson steps out.

The Humphrey-Kennedy debate on Viet Nam, said the Council of Republican Organizations, "has confused the American people, contributed to national disunity and created international disquiet over our purposes."

The $414-million emergency foreign aid measure may be the subject of a Senate Foreign Relations Committee debate before for the committee meets. It was that bill that served as the launching pad for the committee's highly publicized probe of Johnson's Asian policies.

Mid-Week Vote

Two administration supporters, Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said they will attempt to cut off the committee's hearings and turn out the emergency bill for floor action.

The committee voted 8 to 7 last week to hear Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara at a closed hearing and also extended an invitation to Humphrey to talk about his recently concluded Asian trip.

McNamara, who had refused earlier to appear at open hearings, agreed to come Thursday but Humphrey told newsmen he couldn't see the point of any further discussion of his trip.

Long and Symington said they couldn't see any point, either, in the questioning of McNamara after he had already given his views to the Senate Appropriations and Armed Services committees.

With efforts to set a talk limit on the $4.8-billion Viet Nam bill still blocked, Senate leaders have been unable to fix a date for a vote — but they expect it to come Tuesday or Wednesday after action on Morse's proposal.

The House expects to pass the identical bill Tuesday. It approved the emergency foreign aid authorization last week with little fuss.

Traffic Killings Total 19 Over Mild Weekend

By The Associated Press

Nineteen persons, including three children from a single family, died in Michigan traffic over February's final weekend.

Generally the weather was mild. Only a year ago, it was cold and Southeastern Michigan was clawing its way out of one of its deepest snowfalls of the century.

Ronald Lee Williams, 13, and his sisters, Theresa, 9, and Phyllis, 7, died Saturday in a two-car collision at an intersection of two gravel roads in Sumpter Township of Wayne County.

Critically injured in the smashup, were the children's mother, Mrs. Lucille Williams, 42, and her other children, Marlene, 15, and Marilyn, 12. Hit broadside and knocked 100 feet, their car landed on its side in a field.

Almost home from a shopping trip, the family car was loaded with groceries, which were scattered over the field,. It took a wrecker crew 45 minutes to free the Williamses.

Couple Childless:

Ninth Infant Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Arthur T. Noe and his wife tried hard to face the future today as they prepared for the funeral of their daughter — their ninth child to die in infancy since 1949.

"I just don't know what we're going to do," said Noe, 44, a warehouseman. "We can't have any more children. It's too late."

His wife, Marie, 41, said they had considered adoption, adding: "But we would have to speak to our pastor about it first. They may not let us have one. On account of so many deaths."

The couple's 14-month-old daughter, Catherine Ellen, died suddenly and mysteriously Friday. A happy child with golden curls, she had lived the longest.

An autopsy was performed but no definite cause of death given. Additional tests are planned.

Catherine had been hospitalized three times with what a blood specialist and a pediatrician tentatively diagnosed as acute anemia. A doctor examined her Feb. 14 and found her to be in apparent good health. She was to have had another medical checkup today.

Of the other Noe children, one was stillborn and the rest lived from a few hours to six months. One death was blamed on a heart ailment and two on bronchial pneumonia. The others were undiagnosed.

Mrs. Noe said of Catherine: "We really thought we were going to make it this time. She looked just as healthy as anyone. A beautiful child."

Sex Information Can Protect Girl

Most likely candidates for unwed motherhood are girls who lack adequate sex information, have no clear-cut job goals, and tend to feel themselves incompetent and unrewarded, a pair of University of Michigan researchers report.

Jean W. Butman and Jane A. Kamm of the University's Institute for Social Research in a study of students in four different high school districts found that lack of information does not necessarily prevent premarital sexual behavior, but may in fact contribute to it.

They recommend thorough marriage training and sex education courses for high school students, in addition to courses in child development and human psychology—subjects not usually included in high school curriculums.

Butman and Kamm conclude that: "Girls who leave school are oriented to marriage as an immediate goal, are alienated from the reward system, and inactive in the various socializing activities of the school. Not only is the potential drop-out, whether for reasons of pregnancy or not, doing poorly academically, she is also likely to see little relevance between the school—its offerings or its demands—and her own future.

Headed For Marriage

"We find that girls whose mothers have low educational attainment and who have poor relationships with them in terms of acceptance of control are more likely to get into trouble."

The researchers point out that there is an almost universal assumption in our culture that all girls will get married, and should. Vocational opportunities—either real or imagined—tend to be more limited for girls.

"In the absence of clear-cut and definite goals of getting a job, going to college, or developing some occupational identity outside of (or at least prior to) marriage, we would expect girls to be more prone to seeing themselves as ready for marriage and desiring to marry as soon as possible," the U-M investigators explain.

"This orientation to marriage as an immediate goal can lead the girl into mate-seeking activities while still in her teens, and may play an important part in her susceptibility to engaging pre-maturely in adult sexual behavior."

Trouble Pattern

The "male-oriented, achievement-bound" system of the school can be coped with by most girls but, the Michigan researchers report, "we find consistently about 20 per cent of the non-sexually involved, non-drop-out high school girl population reporting patterns much like those of girls who leave school. More support at home along with lack of involvement in a relationship with a boy which could offer escape are probably the major factors preventing these girls from also leaving school.

"All of these girls, potential drop-outs, potentially illicitly pregnant girls, and girls who engage prematurely in adult sexual behavior, are likely to have rejected the female model presented by their mothers, and to be rejecting of control by either parent."

There is evidence also that these girls are less apt to be regular church attenders, although, the investigators emphasize, frequency of church attendance does not necessarily imply acceptance or rejection of the church's ethical and moral standards.

Study Findings

Butman and Kamm say their study results imply that:

1. Acceptance of and training for marriage as a legitimate role, especially for girls, whether now or in the future, should be an important aspect of the high school educational system.

2. Courses in child development, training in human relations, and human psychology should be moved out of the college and into the early years of high school if they are to benefit the girls most in need of help in these areas.

3. Sound sex education, accompanied by open and honest discussions of male-female relationships, emotions, and consequences should be available and even mandatory for girls especially.

Maine Would Take Clay-Terrell Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Pittsburgh is out of the running for the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell fight, and Chicago is likely to be after today.

But not Bangor, Maine.

The State of Maine, host to the highly controversial, loudly disputed and generally derided second fight between Clay and Sonny Liston, made a bid for Clay-Terrell Sunday night, a bid that depends on the action of the Illinois Athletic Commission.

The Illinois commission was scheduled to resume its hearings today on whether to allow the fight to go on. Most observers feel there is little chance the commission will give it the go-ahead.

And a Pittsburgh promoter withdrew an offer to stage the bout if it's kicked out of Illinois.

But a spokesman for Sam Michael, co-promoter of the Clay-Liston fight in Lewiston, Maine, said Sunday night that efforts are being made to get the fight staged in Bangor.

The announcement was made by Joseph L. Michael, brother and business associate of the promoter.

The Illinois Commission recessed its hearing Friday when Clay, who had been expected to apologize for making "unpatriotic remarks," turned the meeting into a shouting match with Commissioner Joe Robichaux.

Robichaux kept addressing Clay as Cassius Clay and the generally accepted heavyweight champion kept interrupting and insisting Robichaux address him by his Black Muslim name of Muhammad Ali.

Shortly after the recess, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark of Illinois called a press conference and revealed that the license issued to the promoters for the March 29 bout in the International Amphitheatre was not legal.

Clark pointed to Section 12 of the Illinois Sports Act and said that under the law a corporation promoting a fight must have the names of at least 50 individuals. The license issued for the fight listed only two names.

And to further complicate matters, Clark said he doubted if the licenses issued to Clay and Terrell were legal under section 23 of the same act which deals with conduct detrimental to boxing.

The furor all began less than two weeks ago when Clay's Louisville draft board reclassified him from 1-Y to 1-A.

The volatile Clay made a string of remarks over his reclassification which Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner termed "unpatriotic" and "disgusting" and asked the commission to reconsider the issuance of Illinois licenses to the fighters.

Wisconsin Suit Against Braves To Start Today

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The trial of Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League begins today, opening the climactic phase of Milwaukee's fight to stay alive as a major league city and threatening the very structure of baseball.

Lawyers in the Milwaukee County Circuit Court case are not hazarding guesses on when the trial will end. They say it will take at least one week and possibly could drag on through March.

The trial's duration will depend on how much each side tries to elaborate on the case it has already built in weeks of pretrial legal sparring.

National League owners and officials as well as Milwaukee and Wisconsin civic and political leaders already have been examined and cross-examined in a series of questioning sessions held as a trial prelude.

The questions and answers from those sessions are expected to be made part of the trial record.

Wisconsin lawyers are hoping for a speedy trial and a judgment ordering the National League to give Milwaukee baseball. They would prefer that the ruling come before the Braves open the season in their new Atlanta home April 12.

Baseball fought hard to get the case put off until at least June or July, but succeeded only in getting the trial pushed back from its original Feb. 1 starting date.

In the way of any Wisconsin court order is a federal injunction handed down by U.S. District Judge James Noel in Houston, Tex., last Thursday. He ordered the Braves to meet their commitments in Atlanta and the National League to abide by the schedule already drawn.

Wisconsin is maintaining that organized baseball is a monopoly, with complete and illegal control over where baseball is played and who plays it.

The monopolistic structure of baseball allowed it to abandon Milwaukee as a major league city, the state is contending, while keeping the city from going anywhere else for a replacement franchise.

Baseball is expected to answer that Milwaukee could not support a major league team and that the owners of the Braves would have suffered economic losses, and possibly even bankruptcy, by remaining in Milwaukee.

Russians Walk Out On National Event

By The Associated Press

The Russians, who run very well, decided to walk instead. So they walked right out of the AAU national indoor track and field championships in Albuquerque this weekend.

"It's been so long," said Russian coach Gabriel Korobkov after his eight-man team had dominated the All-Eastern Games in Baltimore Saturday.

"We are tired.

"We must get home to prepare for the U.S.S.R. championships."

So the Russians, who had entered the Albuquerque meet, skipped out Sunday, joining some 64 Eastern colleges who will not send their athletes to the meet.

Those colleges have entered the IC4A championships in New York's Madison Square Garden Saturday, the same day as the last of the two-day AAU meet.

In addition to the Russians and most of the Eastern schools, Jim Ryun and Ron Clarke, two of the brightest stars of the weekend activity, will be among the missing at Albuquerque.

The Australian Clarke was scheduled to compete, but said he was going home after breaking the indoor two-mile record with a clocking of 8:28.8 in San Francisco. Ryun is scheduled for another meet.

Ryun, the 18-year-old Kansas sensation, ran the first American sub-four indoor mile of the season in the Big Eight championship at Kansas City, and he did it under very adverse conditions.

First of all, he was almost a lap ahead of his closest competitor in the freshman mile, finishing in 3:59.6 despite the lack of competition. And he did it on an extremeely tight, 12-lap track.

Th Russians dominated the Baltimore meet, taking five events. Igor Ter-Ovanesyan won the broad jump at 26-3, Tatyana Schelkinova took the women's broad jump at 21-5, Taisiya Chenchik won the women's high jump at 5-8, Gennady Bliznyetzov coppeed the pole vault at 16-6, and Viktor Kudinsky won the two-mile in 8:44.

Dube Hits 40; Rock Posts Win In Final Game

PERKINS—The Rock Little Giants continued their late season surge here Saturday night when they closed out the regular campaign with a 95-80 victory over Perkins in Central League action.

Charley Dube, 6 foot 1 inch senior, exploded for 40 points to set the scoring pace for the Little Giants who won their fourth straight game and 11th in 19 starts for the season.

The teams tangled in a torrid first period with Rock getting a 27-24 edge. The host Yellowjackets slipped off the pace in the second quarter and trailed at halftime, 49-38. Rock clinched the victory in the third quarter by spreading the margin to 75-56.

Assisting Dube in the Rock scoring department were Larry Lippens with 20, Pat Dube 11 and John Norden 16.

Reggie and Mark Depuydt each contributed 23 points for Perkins and Art VanDamme came through with 17. Reggie had a big night on the boards with 16 rebounds.

Perkins connected on 22 of 31 attempts from the free throw line while Rock tossed in 19 of 26.

Perkins closed the books on the regular season with a 1-17 record.

Rock won the jayvee preliminary game, 59-53.

Spartans Face Bucks Tonight

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State's Spartans, clinging to a slim chance in the Big Ten basketball race, try the Buckeyes at Ohio State tonight.

MSU stands 8-3 in the conference, behind Michigan's 9-2.

State had its troubles, but a huge rebounding edge and the play of Matt Aitch, Stan Washington and Bill Curtis helped the Spartans to a 69-63 victory over Indiana Saturday night.

Both MSU and Michigan have two more games before they meet here March 7 in the final game of the season.

MSU outrebounded the Hoosiers 59 to 28. Curtis got 16, Washington 15 and Aitch 14.

But the Spartans shot only 31 per cent from the floor.

Aitch got 10 of his 15 points in the first half. MSU led 34-32 at the intermission. In the second half, Washington got 12 of his 18 points and Curtis scored eight of his 12 in the last 20 minutes.

"I don't know how we stayed so close when we were outrebounded so badly," said Indiana Coach Lou Watson."

State Coach John Benington said: "We were flat in the first half but Aitch kept us going. He's back in his early season form. Curtis had an off night in scoring, but he helped us a lot on the boards. Washington couldn't go full steam. He still is recovering from the Illinois game, when he took quite a beating."

Max Walker, hampered by a sprained ankle, scored 16 to lead Indiana.

March Madness Begins Tonight For Prep Teams

By The Associated Press

Michigan's "March Madness" starts tonight as the State High School Basketball Tournament begins with almost 760 teams entered.

The three-week tournament will end at Lansing with four state champions being crowned.

Benton Harbor is the defending state Class A king, River Rouge holds the Class B crown, Muskegon Christian won Class C last year and Covert Class D.

One year ago 698,440 fans paid more than half a million dollars to see the teams play at district, regional and finals level.

WKBD-TV (Channel 50, Detroit) will televise the Class A semifinals and all four championship games and serve as an outlet for at least two outstate stations.

There are 127 districts in the state and 32 regional-level tournaments.

March 18 and 19 will see the semifinals and finals played in Lansing, with the finals all at MSU's Jenison Fieldhouse.

Ishpeming Ski Jumpers Sweep State Honors

MESICK (AP) — Ski jumpers from Ishpeming swept most of the honors in the delayed 17th annual Michigan State Championships on a slow, wet slide Sunday.

A warm weather thaw set in at the Briar Hill Ski Club and slowed all the action.

Rolf Funk of Lake Tahoe, Calif., broke a near Ishpeming monopoly of the championships by winning in Class A on leaps of 108 and 115 feet.

Dr. Dom Hurst of Ishpeming won in the veterans class with leaps of 132 and 138 feet. He also won the long standing jump by clearing 142 feet.

The generally modest jumps compared to the numerous jumps of 145 and 165 feet in last year's tournament.

Wayne Thompson of Ishpeming won in Class B with leaps of 138 and 130 feet. Bill Norkoli of Ishpeming won the juniors event by clearing 128 and 133 feet.

Sovey

Terry Sovey Ring Champ

Terry Sovey, Escanaba open division lightweight, waded through two Fond du Lac foes to capture the district Golden Gloves championship Saturday night.

The two-fished puncher salvaged a championship for the Escanaba team after five novice mates bowed out of competition in matches earlier in the week.

Sovey sidelined a pair of highly regarded brothers from Fondy, Leo and Steve Puddy.

In his first start Sovey worked a straight left hand to the head, whipped home hard hooks and a jolting right hand to hurt his foe in the middle round. Puddy was last year's 135 novice champion in the Fond du Lac tourney.

The unanimous decision advanced Sovey to the finals where he faced Steve Puddy, who had won on a forfeit to enter the championship bout in fresh condition.

Sovey took command early in the first round and won every stanza. He switched from jabs to a lead left hook and scored with head-rattling right uppercuts to outclass his opponent by a wide margin.

The Escanaba boxer advances tonight to the Wisconsin state finals in Milwaukee where he will face Mel Caldwell of Neopit. The winner of that bout will be eligible to compete in the national tournament at Kansas City March 21, 22, 23 and 25.

Engadine Spills Pickford Quint In Cage Upset

Coach Rod Carlson'e Engadine Eagles fashioned their second straight Eastern Conference basketball shocker Saturday night when they upset Pickford, 60-57, in overtime.

The Eagles closed their season with their first victory in history on Pickford's court. In their last previous start they spilled Brimley, 90-79, marking the first time an Engadine team had ever defeated a Brimley quint.

Engadine led all the way after jumping out to an 11-4 edge in the first period. The Panthers, defending Upper Peninsula Class D champs, whittled away on their deficit until the closing seconds when Chuck Bennin's field goal tied the score at 51-51 to send the game into overtime.

With a half minute remaining in the extra period, Richard Ozanich pumped in a field goal to give Engadine a 59-57 lead He was fouled with five seconds remaining and put the Eagles out of reach with a free throw.

Ozanich scored 27 points to match Bennin for individual honors.

The Eagles won it from the foul line, cashing in on 24 of 36 opportunities. Pickford made only 7 of 17 to lose their 25 to 18 advantage in field goals.

The victory gave Engadine an overall season record of 8 victories against 9 defeats.

Buzzy Buttons His Lip; Contract Showdown Near

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Buzzy Bavasi isn't talking and he's got plenty of company today as baseball's battle of the pen reaches the showdown stage.

Bavasi, the Los Angeles Dodgers' general manager, continues to fight the good fight with ace pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale but he won't say anymore about it.

"This is the last time I will discuss the Koufax-Drysdale affair with newsmen until I have had a chance to negotiate with them," Bavasi told reporters Sunday.

"I have no idea when I will talk to them," the Dodger GM added.

Koufax and Drysdale are holding out for reported identical three-year contracts that would cost the Dodgers a total of $1 million. Apparently the money involved in't as much of an issue as the length of contract.

"Koufax and Drysdale are entitled to everything they can get," Bavasi said, "but under no circumstances would any player on this club get more than a one-year contract."

Joining Bavasi in silence was Cleveland pitcher Ralph Terry, who is battling Indians' General Manager Gabe Paul over some $7,000, and Cincinnati's assistant GM, Phil Seghi, who is after signatures from pitcher Jim Mahoney and infielder Deron Johnson.

Terry is asking for $38,000 from the Indians, a boost of $7,000 over last year's salary, but he's having trouble convincing Paul.

"I'll wait all year at home if that is what Gabe wants," Terry said. "I wrote to him Saturday and the next move is up to him. He knows what it'll take to sign me." Terry was 11-6 last year.

Seghi said talks with Maloney and Johnson have reached an impasse. Maloney, who pitched two no-hitters and had a 20-9 record last year, and Johnson, the major leagues' runs-batted-in champ with 130, are seeking sizable boosts over their 1965 salaries.

"I haven't heard from either one today," Seghi said Sunday. "The next move is up to Jimmy and Deron."

Apparently communications have also broken down between the Atlanta Braves and ace right-hander Tony Cloninger, a 24-game winner in 1965. Braves' President John McHale said he hasn't heard from Cloninger in almost a week.

A cluster of other front-line pitchers including San Francisco's Juan Marichal and Bob Shaw, Jim (Mudcat) Grant of Minnesota, John Wyatt of Kansas City and Jack Fisher of the New York mets remained unsigned.

Kentucky Heads For Tourney As Dampier Stars

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Louie Dampier, at only 6 feet almost a basketball oddity, is a prime reason why unbeaten Kentucky is headed for its 15th appearance in the NCAA tournament and a chance for an unprecedented fifth championship.

He scored 29 points Saturday night as the top-ranked Wildcats defeated Tennessee 78-64 for their 23rd victory and clinched at least a tie for the Southeastern Conference crown. He and Pat Riley, both juniors, lead Kentucky in scoring, each averaging about 21½ points a game.

Moving into the NCAA with Kentucky following Saturday's games were Davidson, Cincinnati and Miami of Ohio.

Davidson won its first Southern Conference title, defeating West Virginia in the tournament final 80-69 behind Dick Snyder's 27 points.

Cincinnati clinched the Missouri Valley crown by trimming Drake 56-49, and Miami grabbed the Mid-American Conference crown with a 79-72 triumph over Toledo.

Duke's second-ranked Blue Devils ended their regular season with a 77-63 victory over North Carolina. Now they get set for the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which they must win in order to get to the NCAA. Their first game is against Wake Forest Thursday.

Kansas, No. 6, took a half-game lead in the Big Eight by handing Nebraska, No. 8, its first league loss 110-72, while 10th-ranked Michigan held onto a one-game margin in the Big Ten, crushing Purdue 105-85.

Utah clinched a tie for the Western Athletic Conference title with a 97-85 triumph over New Mexico. Southern Methodist pulled into a first-place tie with Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference by edging Texas 71-69.

Oregon State retained a 1½-game lead in the Pacific Athletic Conference with a 54-47 victory over Washington State while the University of Pacific snapped San Francisco's 34-game home - court winning streak 82-71 and grabbed a one-game lead over the Dons in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Penn missed a chance at putting away the Ivy League crown, losing at Cornell 81-76

Among the independents, seventh-ranked St. Joseph's, Pa., walloped Xavier of Ohio 101-83, ninth - ranked Providence downed Holy Cross 81-72, St. John's edged Marquette 70-68, Houston trampled Portland 109-84, Army stopped Navy 70-56 and Dayton nipped De Paul 76-73.

Cazzie, Dave Are Unanimous

CHICAGO (AP) — A comparatively small but all-senior All-Big Ten basketball team for 1966 was named today by The Associated Press.

It is headed by unanimous choices Cazzie Russell of Michigan and Purdue's Dave Schellhase, each selected for the third straight season.

Another top choice was Illinois' Don Freeman, who set an all-time Illini scoring record. Archie Clark of Minnesota and Stan Washington of Michigan State round out the first team.

Russell and Schellhase, tallest men at 6-6 and 6-4, were averaging over 30 points in their chase for the conference scoring championship, won last year by the Purdue star.

All other first-team players were among the top scorers with averages of close to 20 points or better.

Dropping to the all-senior second team by a narrow count was Minnesota's Lou Hudson, a first line-up choice a year ago. Early this season, he suffered a fractured wrist and was sidelined for nearly a month

With Hudson on the well-balanced No. 2 squad are Oliver Darden of Michigan, fiery George Peeples of Iowa, Bill Curtis of Michigan State and Northwestern' Jim Pitts, the Big Ten's leading rebounder with a better than 15 average.

Monbouquette Regains Confidence With Trade

By BERNIE KENNEDY

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) If there is one thing former Boston pitching ace Bill Monbouquette may have regained by being traded to the Detroit Tigers, it is his confidence.

"I guess the big difference between pitching for the Tigers and the Red Sox will be defense," Monbouquette said Sunday." The Red Sox scored a lot of runs, but it always seemed something would come up and we would get beaten.

"It got to a point where I was afraid to make a mistake," he continued. "It seemed other pitchers would make a mistake and get away with it. I'd make one and either lose the game or get knocked out of the box."

Monbouquette, who has pitched 215 or more innings in each of the past six years, slipped to a 10-18 mark in 1965, his worst ever with the Red Sox.

"I honestly feel that record could have been reversed," Monbouquette said. "It was just one of those things—I just couldn't make a mistake."

Monbouquette feels the trade to the Tigers is one of the big breaks of his life.

"I played with Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen, Pete Runnells, Frank Malzone and a lot of other real good players and we only finished in the first division once," he said.

"It isn't often you get traded to a team that has a habit of finishing in the first division. It's just going to be up to me to make the most of the opportunity," he added.

Monbouquette does not feel the short left field fence in Boston affected his pitching. "Sure, you know it's there, but I will probably be a little conscious of the shorter fence in right in Tiger Stadium. If you are a good pitcher you should be able to get the batters out in any park," he observed.

Monbouquette enters the 1966 campaign with a 96-91 record.

The Tigers need one more signature—that of pitcher Julio Navarro—to bring all of their players under contract. First Baseman Norm Cash agreed to terms Saturday after a brief telephone conversation with James A. Campbell, vice president and general manager, and was expected to join the team today.

Cash hit .266 last year and was second on the team behind Willie Horton.

The remainder of the Tigers are expected to report Wednesday.

Michigan Wins But Can't Shake Trailing Spartans

By The Associated Press

Michigan's Wolverines might be leading the Big Ten basketball race by one game with three games remaining, but nobody can blame Coach Dave Strack and his charges if they are looking around for a little help.

Michigan pounded Purdue 105-85 Saturday but couldn't stretch its conference lead as Michigan State hung on tenaciously with a 69-63 victory over Indiana.

Going into the stretch, Michigan has home dates with Iowa tonight and Northwestern Saturday before colliding in the season finale at Michigan State.

Michigan State, meanwhile, has road engagements at Ohio State tonight and at Indiana Saturday before squaring off with Michigan March 7.

Michigan State, which finished last a year ago while Michigan was copping its second straight championship, would be perfectly willing to go into the final game of the season only one lap behind the Wolverines.

If this happened and Michi- State defeated Michigan, the two teams would finish in a title tie and Michigan State would get the bid to the NCAA championships since Michigan was the last team to represent the Big Ten playoffs.

Purdue's Dave Schellhase rolled up 37 points Saturday at Lafayette, Ind., but couldn't pull the Boilermakers to victory. Michigan's Cazzie Russell tossed in 33 points as the Wolverines fired a 60 per cent average from the floor.

The edge by Schellhase gave him the Big Ten scoring lead by one point over Russell.

Coach Strack moved Jim Myers from the high post near the free throw line to the baseline to the left of the basket and told John Clawson to roam near the basket on the opposite side.

"They were using one man to cover Cazzie in the second half and the rest were in a zone—sort of a box and one," said said Strack. "So we ran what we call our man-to-man offense—the one used against a man-to-man defense—to get Cazzie free.

"It wasn't working too well, so Myers was moved to the baseline and they didn't cover him. Then we put a forward under the basket because we knew they couldn't stop both of them," Strack added.

Clawson had the finest night of his career with 30 points. Oliver Darden got 15 and Myers 12.

Michigan led 50-40 at the half and moved to 57-43, but Purdue cut the lead to 68-65 before Strack shifted the offense.

The Wolverines then jumped to a 78-67 lead with Russell, Myers and Clawson doing the damage. With only seven minutes to go Purdue started fouling—hoping that "they might miss some on one-and-one," said Coach George King — and Michigan made 11 points on free throws.

In Saturday's only other game, Minnesota edged Illinois 94-92 to climb into a fourth place tie with the Illini and Northwestern.

Michigan State will be facing second-division opponents this week but that means little in the Big Ten since the Spartans will be on the road and home teams hold a 39-17 advantage over visitors.

As close as the race might seem at present, Michigan could assure itself of at least a title tie tonight if the Wolverines defeat Iowa and Michigan State falters at Ohio State.

Rounding out tonight's schedule, Minnesota will be at Indiana, Northwestern at Wisconsin and Purdue at Illinois.

Red Wings Skid Deeper In Race

By The Associated Press

The road ahead for the faltering Detroit Red Wings now is strictly uphill — almost straight up — in their fight to retain the National Hockey League regular season championship.

The Wings skidded to a full eight points off the NHL pace in action Sunday night.

A 5-3 defeat by the Montreal Canadiens, with goalie Roger Crozier subjected to another pummeling, cost the wings dearly.

The Chicago Black Hawks cleaned up on the Boston Bruins, 7-1, to remain tied with the Canadiens for the NHL lead.

Bobby Hull's 49th goal brought him within one of the season record he shares with Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion. He also got four assists, boosting his league-leading point total to 84.

The Black Hawks and Canadiens now are in front in the league race with 69 points apiece, compared to Detroit's 61.

The Red Wings, now going on the road for a spell, have a thinning hold on third place. The Toronto Maple Leafs, three points behind, gained a point in tieing the New York Rangers Sunday 2-2.

Back-to-back weekend setbacks from Chicago and Montreal put the Wings in a severe position. They lost to the Black Hawks Saturday 4-1.

Of 14 games remaining, nine are on the road, starting with Chicago Wednesday. The Wings have been less than impressive on the road. They have dropped 13 games while winning nine and tieing four.

Abel pulled Crozier in the last 30 seconds Sunday night in a desperate effort to gain a tie and Gilles Tremblay fired the puck into an empty net for Montreal's fifth goal. It was his second of the game.

Earlier in the third period Claude Larose beat Crozier on an easy shot for a 4-3 Montreal lead. Bobby Rousseau and Henri Richard got the other Montreal goals.

Detrit, which has won only three of its last 16 games, got its goals from Floyd Smith, Dean Prentice and Bruce MacGregor.

Northern Edged By Air Force; Calvin Is Champ

By The Associated Press

Michigan has settled its MIAA basketball championship for 1966 with Calvin's Knights the winners.

Calvin's league conquest, completed in a season finale 79-72 victory over runner-up Hope, highlighted the weekend's small college competition.

The 1966 season ended for a number of schools, including the MIAA members.

Results were less than satisfactory in Michigan's interstate competition. Michigan teams won only two of 10 games with interstate rivals.

One of the losses was Northern Michigan's 97-94 defeat by Air Force Academy on the Wildcats' visit to Colorado. NMU's high scoring Gene Summers was limited to 16 points. It was NMU's fifth loss in 20 games.

Calvin concluded its MIAA championship season with an 11-1 record in winning the showdown with Hope. Hope finished 9-3. Wes De Mots of Calvin led individual scoring with 22 points.

Kalamazoo won from Alma 93-62 and Olivet defeated Albion 81-72 in other MIAA games. Adrian played out of the league, losing to Defiance of Ohio 84-79.

The Hornets' Jim Peters completed his career with a 1,203 point total, second only to the 1,252 of Gary Morrison, now Galesburg Augusta high school coach and Peters' former prep mentor. Morrison is a 1957 Kalamazoo grad.

Kalamazoo and Olivet wound up the MIAA race tied for third with 6-6 records. Following in order were Albion 5-7, Adrian 3-6 and Alma 1-10.

Wayne State and Eastern Michigan, both Presidents's Athletic Conference members, were the only teams to hold up Michigan's end in interstate battles.

EMU, a PAC leader at 10-1, drubbed Case Tech 97-62. Wayne State won handily from Western Reserve 89-70.

Western Michigan, leading by a point with 15 seconds to play, lost its Mid-American Conference game with Marshall 70-69 on a basket by Dave Whetsell.

Records came out of some of the play.

Hillsdale set a new school scoring record in thumping Michigan Lutheran 132-74. The total surpassed the 121 scored against Windsor earlier this season.

Michigan Tech permitted a new Northern Intercollegiate Conference individual record in losing to champion St. Cloud 104-71 as the Minnesota team's Isadore Schmiesing ran up 56 points.

Schmiesing shot 20 field goals and 16 of 20 free throws in beating the old record of 37 by Don Carruth, also of St. Cloud.

St. Cloud won the NIC title with a 9-1 mark. Tech finished 0-10.

Central Michigan lost an IIAC overtime sizzler to Northern Illinois 99-88. Regulation play ended 86-86.

Michigan Golfer Takes Lead In Senior Tourney

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — John Barnum, Belmont, Mich., became the third leader in as many days of the $35,000 PGA Seniors Golf Tournament Sunday when he fired a three-under-par 69 for a 54-hole total of 212.

Gusty winds up to 30 miles per hour added to the hazards of the 6,896-yard PGA National Golf Club scores. Freddie Haas of New Orleans, La., with a 71, was the only other player in the field of 108 to break par 72.

Haas now has 214, tied for the runner-up spot with E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Ellisville, Mo. Harrison was the 36-hole leader but carded a double bogie after being trapped on the 18th hole Sunday and finished with a 74.

Pete Cooper, Sorrento, Fla., scored his second straight 73 for a 216 total and fourth place.

Skee Riegel, Jamison, Pa., the first round leader with a 67 then had a 77, added a 75 for 219. The final round of the 72-hold event for pros of 50 years or older will be played Monday.

Huskies Rally To Nip Gophers

HOUGHTON (AP) — Michigan Tech's Dave Confrey jammed in the winning goal as the Huskies overcame three goals by Minnesota's Eugene Gambucci for a 5-4 Western Collegiate Hockey Association victory Saturday.

Tech had clinched the WCHA title for the second straight year with a victory over Minnesota Friday night.

Confrey scored the winner at 14 minutes of the final period.

Holland Patterson, Bob Wilson, Fred Hall and Bob Toothill scored the other Tech goals. Chuck Norby got Minnesota's fourth goal.

GLADSTONE

Honor Former City Resident

Mrs. Lorn Johnson, of Iron Mountain, the former Margaret Hult, will receive one of Michigan's 10 volunteer leadership awards for 1965 to be presented by Governor George Romney at a special joint session of the legislature at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Lansing.

Mrs. Johnson, who is the daughter of Dr. Otto Hult, will be honored for outstanding service to her community and state for her work in planning, organizing and directing a joint community school program for the Iron Mountain and Breitung Township school district in which 5,500 residents participated in its first year.

Announcement of the award was made by Dale I. Sellers, president of the Greater Michigan Foundation. They have been chosen by a panel of judges from more than 200 individuals nominated by the 16 regional chairmen of the 1965 Michigan Week. Dr. Dewey Barich, president of the Detroit Institute of Technology, headed the judging panel.

Blood Donors Needed Tuesday

Gladstone residents and those from the surrounding area are asked to give blood Tuesday when the Badger Blood Mobile unit of the Bank will be stationed at the James T. Jones School from 3 to 7 p.m.

The quota for Gladstone is 77 pints and the Delta County Chapter of the Red Cross Association is asking that a greater effort be made at this time to fill this request.

Members of the L.C.W. of First Lutheran Church will be in charge of the canteen.

Equip Airports For Blackouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Agency has established a "safe haven" program to equip 50 airports with power generators to provide lights to land by even if large areas are hit by a power blackout such as the one that darkened the Northeast last Nov. 9.

Under the plan, no aircraft would be less than 200 miles from a "safe haven" field, said David D. Thomas, deputy administrator of the FAA.

Equal Status

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Two male legislators say women should work on an equal status with men—and they have introduced legislation to achieve equality.

Reps. Stephen Brunero and J. Camile Peloquin, both Democrats, have introduced a bill in the Rhode Island Legislature to wipe away present limitations on working women.

The law now classes women with minors between ages 16 and 18, and severely restricts the hours and types of jobs at which they can work.

STEELWORKER—She works in steel, but in an artist's studio, not a mill. Mary Ann Scherr, art instructor at Ohio's Kent State University, switched from conventional gold and silver to stainless steel for her modern jewelry designs several years ago. She uses heavy power equipment, top, to turn out gleaming pieces, bottom, which show off "the beauty and integrity of the metal."

NBC Chairman Resigns Post

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert E. Kintner has submitted his resignation as chairman of the board of the National Broadcasting Co. The resignation, effective March 31, had been widely expected.

Kintner's resignation was submitted Friday "with regret." It was accepted "with a deep sense of regret" by Robert W. Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, parent company of the network.

Kintner, 56, has held the post of board chairman since Jan. 1 of this year, after resigning the presidency of NBC, an office he held since July, 1958. Officially, he was replacing Sarnoff as board chairman.

State Briefs

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit attorney, Gordon Wood, was elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Michigan Heart Association Saturday.

GRAND BLANC (AP) — William J. Lepard, 2, broke through the ice on Thread Creek near his home and perished Friday. His sister, Catherine, 4, pulled him out, but efforts to revive him failed.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Commonwealth Fund has granted Michigan State University's College of Human Medicine $160,800 to study the effectivness of the new approaches to medical education the school plans to start next fall.

KEEPING DOORS CLEAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—If your house has doors that block traffic, substitute quiet folding doors made of washable vinyl-coated nylon, suggests the Cleanliness Bureau.

They come to fit any standard door opening and are easy to install. When fingermarks appear, just rub the area with a damp sudsy sponge or cloth.
